Our client are a Dutch semiconductor company whose technology serves as a critical enabler for next-generation use-cases in the IoT, wearable, embedded, and automotive domains.

Responsibilities:

Automating the software build, test, and deployment cycle, manage the cross-team dependency of software build artifacts, and increase the efficiency of multiple software teams

Maintaining the computing infrastructure, monitor and improve the performance, and making proposals for scalability when the company grows

Managing the cloud infrastructure and its workload, simplifying the usage, and maximizing the compute resource available to each user

Proposing solutions to manage the large amount of data within the company

Improving the security, without loss of ease of accessibility

Helping and assisting the team in case of IT and Network issues

Key Requirements:

3+ years of experience, have worked in multi-projects software environments, exposure to hardware design flow would be a plus

Knowledge of DevOps applications e.g. Gitlab, Docker, Ansible, Zabbix, Graphana, AWS, Azure;

Knowledge of Python, shell scripting, networking (IP stack)

ICT management skills

Experience with version control systems, mainly Git

Experience with containerization, e.g. docker or kubernetes

Experience with continuous integration (Gitlab CI, Jenkins etc.)

Knowledge of a range of development cycles (to guide us to a dev-cycle that works for our teams)

Experience with ML lifecycle (experiment tracking, model registry, reproducible deployment) would be a plus

Proficient in individual and team-based projects
